To achieve this purpose, ongoing monitoring is necessary. The extent of such monitoring will depend upon the level of risk involved in a particular account. Any transaction or activity of the customer which gives rise to suspicion will be given special attention. Such monitoring is important to keep a check on any act or omission of the customer which may amount to money laundering or support any act relating to use of finance for criminal activities.

SUSPICIOUS TRANSACTION REPORT (STR)

A suspicious transaction is one for which there are reasonable grounds to suspect that the transaction is related to a money laundering offence or a terrorist activity financing offence. A suspicious transaction can include one that was attempted. Throughout this guideline, any mention of a "transaction" includes one that is either completed or attempted.

“Reasonable grounds to suspect” is determined by what is reasonable in the circumstances, including normal business practices and systems within the industry.

There is no monetary threshold for making a report on a suspicious transaction. A suspicious transaction may involve several factors that may on their own seem insignificant, but together may raise suspicion that the transaction is related to the commission or attempted commission of a money laundering offence, a terrorist activity financing offence, or both. The context in which the transaction occurs or is attempted is a significant factor in assessing suspicion.

An assessment of suspicion should be based on a reasonable evaluation of relevant factors, including the knowledge of the customer’s business, financial history, background and behaviour.

An illustrative (but not exhaustive) list of suspicious transactions is furnished in “Annexure-1”.

Responsibility:

The Compliance Team in co-ordination with the Institutional Business Team should review the STR Reports generated by the AML system and finalize the transactions to be reported as STR. - Liaison with Institutional Business Teams for responses / clarifications on STR alerts

The Company shall ensure the following:

- carry out an internal Money Laundering and Terrorist Financing risk assessment periodically involving the below mentioned aspects in relation to the onboarded clients
- identify, assess and take effective measures to mitigate its money laundering and terrorist financing risk for clients, countries or geographic areas, products, services, transactions or delivery channels, etc.
